BPA - Free Kids Ordinance

The Chicago City Council enacted the BPA-Free Kids Ordinance, which restricts the sale of any container designed to be filled with food or liquid to be used for a child under the age of three that contains Bisphenol A (BPA). What containers are affected by the ordinance?

- Bottles
- Cups
- Sippy cups
- Any container designed to be filled with food or liquid, intended for a child under the age of three.
- In addition, selling these items will require a label indicating that the item is free of BPA. What are the fines for violating this ordinance? Businesses found selling products containing BPA face Administrative Hearing citations that may result in fines.
