<sup>1</sup> Neighborhood Business Development Centers (NBDC) program grantees are Chicago-based chambers of commerce and business support organizations that assist in the development of small businesses in Chicago, serve as liaison between local businesses and the City of Chicago, provide neighborhood business development services, and free business consultation services.

<sup>2</sup> Mayor Lightfoot established the Chicago Small Business Resiliency Fund to provide over $100 million in targeted, low-interest loans to business impacted by the COVID-19 Outbreak. The new emergency fund will lend up to $50,000 in working capital loans to neighborhood entrepreneurs suffering substantial economic injury to help support rent and payroll expenses. The City will be working with a network of Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs), who will be responsible for providing support with application screening, credit underwriting, loan disbursements and servicing. For more information, or to apply, please go to www.chicagoresiliencyfund.com.
