Governor Pat Quinn and Mayor Rahm Emanuel announced today their eight appointments for the Metropolitan Pier and Exposition Authority (MPEA) Board. The Governor and the Mayor are each allotted four appointments under state law.

"Thanks to the reforms that we worked together to put in place this fall, McCormick Place will continue as a major economic engine in Illinois," Governor Quinn said. "Our new board unites business and labor to provide the necessary expertise and experience that will attract new tradeshow and compete with the world."

"McCormick Place is essential to Chicago's economic future," said Mayor Emanuel. "I'm committed to making sure we have the best team in place to ensure McCormick Place's success in attracting conventions and business travelers to Chicago, which create essential jobs for Chicagans and grow our city's economy."

Earlier this month, it was announced that Jack M. Greenberg will serve as the Chairman of the MPEA board. Greenberg is Chairman of the Western Union Company and also serves as Chairman of Chicago-based InnerWorkings, Inc., in addition to being a director of Allstate Corporation and other major corporations. He is a trustee at the Field Museum, the Institute of International Education, and DePaul University, where he previously served as Chairman. He is also a member of the Executive Committee of the Chicago Community Trust.

“I thank the Mayor and Governor for the opportunity to serve, and look forward to working with the Board and Management to build on the solid platform for success that has been created,” Greenberg said. “I hope to provide significant assistance in attracting visitors to McCormick Place and Chicago in order to grow the region’s economy.”

Jim Reilly, who has served as MPEA Trustee for the past 20 months, will stay on as CEO of MPEA.

“The Interim Board, headed by David Mosena, has worked tirelessly in support of Jim Reilly and the MPEA mission, including helping us successfully resolve the McCormick Place labor issues,” said Mayor Emanuel.

MPEA formerly served both McCormick Place and Navy Pier; however, as of July 1, 2011, Navy Pier is operating as a separate not for profit entity. The selections by Governor Quinn are subject to the confirmation by the state Senate. All appointees will be effective immediately.
