Overview of Network of Woodlawn

- The Network of Woodlawn (NOW) began its work as the New Communities Program Woodlawn (NCPW). NCPW was one of twelve lead organizations in fourteen communities charged with convening, collaborating and incubating comprehensive community development efforts in each of their respective communities. This effort was initiated and funded by the Chicago Local Initiative Support Corporation (LISC). The convening and collaborative efforts produced a ten year Quality of Life Plan, illustrating the vision, strategies and projects to be implemented through collaborative efforts. The plan was published in May 2005.
- As the plan nears its ten year duration, NOW was created as an extension and continuation of NCPW's work, building on previous collaborative successes.
